Summary of reasons
for classification:

The computer text file entitled 'KGS' is classified as:
Objectionable.

The publication is classified as objectionable because it promotes and supports the exploitation of children for sexual purposes, promotes and supports the use of urine in association with sexual conduct, and promotes and supports bestiality.

The purpose of the publication is to sexually arouse viewers with a sexual interest in children. In doing so, the publication legitimises the idea that young persons are ready for adult forms of sexual activity. The publication also presents the use of urine in a sexual context, and bestiality as acceptable activities. These activities are presented as sexually stimulating. The publication is explicit, implies that children will not be harmed by such activity, and it is in a format conducive to private reading and easy dissemination.

The classification of this publication interferes with the freedom of expression, as set out in s14 of the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. This outcome is consistent, however, with Parliament's intention that publications falling under s3(2) of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993 are deemed to be objectionable. The classification is also a reasonable limitation on the freedom of expression that reflects the concern of a free and democratic society to limit the availability of publications that promote and support the exploitation of children for sexual purposes, promote and support the use of urine in association with sexual conduct and promote and support bestiality.
